Philadelphia's Congressmen Are Sad. The Philadelphia congressmen have played in hard luck. On Monday a bill passed both houses of congress and was signed by the pres ident providing for a new $2,000,000 mint in Philadelphia. Until today the Philadelphia men have been jubilant, but now they are disappointed. In drawing up the bill they neglected to put an appropriating clause in the bill and without it no money is available. Thus they will have to await the action of the next congress with the chances decidedly against them. A strong effort will be made to have the mint located here.

Sayers's Estimate of the Deficit. Representative Sayers, of Texas, a member of the appropriations committee, prepared a statement today, showing that the total appro-priations for Reed's fifty-first congress has en $1,006.270,471, against $817,963,859 for the preceding congress, or an increase of $188,-306,612. The next congress will have an im-mense burden on its hands to provide for the deficiency of more than $50,000,000, which it will find on hand. Hardson's Favorite Wasn't Confirmed. Jim Hill, the negro who President Harrison appointed postmaster at Vicksburg, failed to be confirmed by the senate. The democrats fought vigorougly and had it reached a vote the chances are the attempt to confirm him wou'd have failed. In view of the failure to confirm him, it is the plain duty of the president to appoint another. However, no one can tell what Harrison and Wanamaker will do. Hill might be reappointed, but if he is the senate will reject him when it meets next

Will Charge for the Exchange of Coin for Gold Bars.

Washington, March 5—The treasury de partment has already been called upon to act under the Sherman amendment to the legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill authorizing the secretary of the treasury to exercise his discretion in the exchange of gold for gold coin and also to impose a charge for such exchange. Heretofore the statute regulating this matter has been construed by the treasury department as against imposition of a charge Under the new law the policy of the department will be to charge 4 cents per $100 in value for all gold bars required for shipment and if this fails to deter gold shipments th and if this fails to deter gold shipments the question will then be considered as to the advisability of refusing altogether to exchange gold bars for shipment, thus compelling shippers to use gold coin or to obtain gold bars from private parties. A ruling to this effect was first made yesterday on a telegraphic order for $600,000 in gold bars for shipment from New York. The director of the mint, with the approval of the secretary of the treasury, directed that a charge of $240 (or 4 cents per $100) be made for the exchange, but is not yet advised as to whether the exchange was made on that basis. It is assumed, however, that it was. The treasury department is in receipt of advices treasury department is in receipt of advices from New York to the effect that there will be a heavy demand for gold bars for shipment by steamers sailing for Europe Saturday.

Streeter will undoubtedly be the next United States senator from Illinois. At the afternoon meeting of the republican state central committee the action of the steering committee in throwing the party vote to Streeter was endorsed, and the party was recommended to vote as a unit. The recalcitrant republicans subsequently agreed to come into line, but asked until Tuesday. The indications are, however, that Streeter will be elected tomorrow or Saturday.

An Extra Session Not Necess WASHINGTON, March 5 .- It is said at the white house that no more appointments will be made until after the president's return from his hunting trip to Benjies, Md., next week. The Democratic Apportionment Goes.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., March 5.—Both houses today passed the legislative apportionment bill over the governor's veto; also the congressional apportionment bill, giving democrats ten of the thirteen congressmen on the vote of 1888. Couldn't Stand That-Has Far-intended bride. Last week, Cook Farnum, of Borax Lake Cal., went to Columbus to marry Miss Emms E. Layton, of Waverly avenue. The wedding was to have occurred yesterday, but, at the hour appointed, Farnum did not put in his appear ance, and this evening Miss Layton received a ance, and this evening Miss Layton received, in letter from him, postmarked Springfield, in which he announced that he intended to com-mit snielde.

Farnum and his intended were both and reared in Georgia and belonged to excedent families. Farnum, as stated, being a newhew to Justice Lamar, of the Unied States suprem court. He was for six years in the navy, serving part, if not all of the time, on the Aiert. He is quite wealthy and, besides being interested in barax works, owns several oil wells in southern California.

Last Sunday he called on Miss Layton and at the same time her employer, an old friend, called on her to bid her good-bye. As he was about to leave, she kissed him in the present of her lover. Farnum remarked that he did not consider that right, at the time. In his letter he told her that in his opinion she loves her employer better than she does him. Miss Layton is a very pretty and intelligent girl, and feels very keenly the intended slight put upon her by her lover. She had made all preparations for the marriage, and had received congratulations from friends on her approaching nuptials. Farnum has not yet put into execution the rash threats he made in the letter. There are no traces of him in the city where the letter to his affianced was mailed, and it is hoped that, when he has thought over the situation, he will return to his waiting bride.

THE RACE QUESTION IN OKLAHOMA The Negroes Carry Smallpox Into Guthrie.

Sr. Louis, March 5 .- A special from Oklahoma City, says: The race question is assuming a serious phase in Oklahoma territory, and the continued agitation which the subject is raising is more than likely to result in a collision between the whites and the blacks. When this territory was thrown open to settlement, a large number of negroes settled in Guthrie, but coming excited no serious comment. During the last six weeks, however, negroes from the south have swarmed into Oklahoma by hundreds in response to induce-ments thrown out in a glitter-ing prospectus which was scattered broad-cast in communities thickly settled by blacks. The main mover in this grand colonization scheme is said to be E. P. McCabe, ex-auditor of Kansas, in conjunction with two white men.
One hundred and sixty acres of ground were purchased nine miles north of Guthrie, and a mythical town laid out. Glowing descriptions of Langston City were industriously circulated by said agents, generally colored culated by said agents, generally colored preachers, and the ignorant blacks of arkansas and Alabama eagerly invested their small savings in "the promised land."

A gentleman who arrived from Guthrle today describes the situation there as something pitiful. The negroes, he said, are arriving there by hundreds, and in a condition that is little worse than destitute. They are encamped about the Santa Fe depot, and their sufferings from the recent cold weather, in addition to the pangs of hunger, are intense, but the the pangs of hunger, are intense, but the worst feature, and particularly the one that has aroused the Guthrie newspapers to a realization of the situation, is the fact that new arrivals have brought the smallpox with them. Guthrie at first sup fact that the disease existed, for fear the town would be injured, but since it is found that the smallpox is spreading the newspaper have come out and openly declare in favor of instituting a quarantine against the blacks.

SAVANNAH, Ga., March 5.—[Special.]—Sam Wagner, alias Ned|Williams, was arrested here today for the murder of a negro at the turpen tine camp, near Cordele, December 20th.

Wagner came into town today from South Carolina where he has been hiding, and was arrested in two hours. He confessed the killing, but claimed it was justifiable. He is said to have killed two men beside the one he killed at the camp. Wagner is a desperate character. He made an offer to Detec-tive Witherspoon that he would break every pair of handcuffs in the office after having them locked on his wrists, provided he would e given his liberty on completing the job.

Wagner has been a terror to the turpentine camps through Georgia for a long time. He would go into a gambling game and keep a close watch on the winner. After all had rettred and things quieted down, he would go to the man who had the winnings and compel him to give up his cash at the point of a revolver.

GLADSTONE OBJECTS

To Sir Charles Dilke as a Candidate for Parliament.

LONDON, March 5 .- A long statement has been issued, and is now being circulated among the electors of the Forest of Dean division of Gloucestershire, on behalf of Sir Charles Dilke. On February 25th, it was announced that the electors of Forest of Dean division had asked Dilke to be their candidate for parliament at the coming general election Dilke assented to their proposition, provided that he had a fair assurance from a majority of the liberal electors that his candidacy would receive their support. Finally it was that Dilke had supplied the Forest of Dean liberal organization with a statement for private circulation among its members, vindicating himself against the charges made against him in connection with the famous Crawford-Dilke divorce case in which he was involved

This statement is not signed, but bears inernal evidence that Dilke is the author of the document. The statement tries to show that the leading assertions of the respondent, Mrs. Crawford, were untrue, and that she was an abandoned character and habitual frequenter of houses of ill-fame.

According to this statement, Captain Forester ought to have been co-respondent, and not Dilke. Referring to the notorious "Fanny" of that suit, the pamphlet says that she is now happily married, and is known as Mrs. Stock. Continuing, the pamphlet says that Mrs. Crawford, during the divorce proceedings, made the assertion that "Fanny" had been Sir Charles Dilke's mistress, and crowned her own infamy by swearing that she (Mrs. Crawford) had held the same relations.

In this connection it has been widely asserted that "Fanny" avoided going into the witness box, and that in so doing she pracserted that "Panny avoided going into the witness box, and that in so doing she practically admitted her guilt. Since the trial, however, according to the statement, "Fanny" has made a statutory declaration, giving a full account of herself, and has made a sworn denial of Mrs. Crawford's story, so far as it related to her, before the queen's proctor. "Fanny's" husband, the pamphlet adds, believes his wife's story, and says that he has the best reasons to know that she is a good woman. The statement also compares the evidence furnished at the trials in detail. The most striking novelties of the whole affair are "Fanny's" declaratior

The general opinion seems to be that the pamphlet will reopen the agitation of years gone by, and will probably win over to Sir Charles's side of the affair a number of the public who have previously condemned him, but that it will fail to completely vindicate Dilke.

It is probable that Sir Charles will abandon the idea of re-entering parliament, Gladstone having objected to his proposed candidacy. Mr. Stead has published a protest against the return of Dilke, signed by a prominent non-conformist. Mr. Stead promises to issue a pamphlet tomorrow refuting the claims of Dilke.

The party organs fired their last guns this norning and plied the party whip with vigor.

The Toronto Empire says:

Today the people of Canada are called upon to decide the fate of their beloved country as they decide the fate of their beloved country as they have never before been called upon. Day by day, as the contest progressed, the people have recognized more and more the terrible meaning of the platform of the reformed leaders. In the eyes of every one unrestricted reciprocity must have as its inevitable and dread consequence and end, the annexation to the United States. Thatjawful destiny, involving the ruin of our commercial tiny, involving the ruin of our commercial and material welfare, as well as our political and social existence; dissolving every tie of kindred and affection that binds us to our mother nations, now faces the electorate of the Dominion. Link by link the chain of evidence against the great leaders has been proved, and against the great leaders has been proved; and now the traitors, who would betray their country to an alien nation, in the vain hope of gaining power, which they are so incapable of holding in their sway, stand trembling, waiting to hear the aweeping condemnation that it is the duty of every loyal citizen to pass upon them.

Receiving the Returns in Toronto. TORONTO, Canada, March 5.—The interest taken in the result of the elections is probably unprecedented. People began to crowd upon the streets about 6 o'clock, and by 8 o'clock all the newspaper offices were surrounded by great crowds.

The Globe, Empire, Telegram and News ( published cartoons and stereopticon views on canvas in front of their respective offices. The returns from country constituencies showing large liberal gains, created a good deal of enthusiasm around The Globe office, but of being close. At midnight the vote stands: Conservatives, 111; liberals, 94.

The Globe editorially tomorrow will say that the government has been sustained by a majority which at the present writing seems too small to enable it to carry on the affairs for any considerable length of time. Its ma-jority in the last parliament was fifty, and in the new parliament will not exceed twelve or fifteen. At the outside it will be less than twenty, and in times like these the tory administration, pledged to a trade policy which is impoverishing the people, cannot work with so small a majority. Ontario has done her duty. The government had a majority in Ontario of twenty, but as things look, the representation will be about evenly divided. Quebec also has done well. The liberal loss of five seats and liberal gain of seventeen seats are enumerated. The losses of the opposition to the eastern provinces are attributed to the influence of the govern-

This, however, considered to be only a pretext to obtain a higher price for champagne. Experiments made in various parts of France prove that wine growers are now able to successfully combat phylloxera. The real reason for the advance in price is that the growers, who have hitherto been at the mercy of the shippers, have formed a combination and have raised the price. The shippers, in turn, have increased the price to consumers.

MACON, Ga., March 5 .- [Special.]-Rome continues to kick against the military en ment being located at Macon. Her kicking will do no good, however, for the advisory not rescind its action. Inoh has been received at today that Colonel Garrard and formatioh has Colonel Mercer, of Savannah, say that they do not believe the board will reconsider its action, as that would be practically confessing that there was something unfair in it. They say, "Macon got the site fairly and honorably, and is entitled to hold it."

Colonel Mercer is quoted as saying that Rome, which seemed to be doing the most nowling in the matter, did not get a vote by the board. He said that the people who are doing the most howling over the matter are the real estate agents and people who expected to profit by the location of the site in their own Tallulah Don't Protest. TALLULAH FALLS, Ga., March 3 .- Editor Constitution: In your paper of this date I see that Tallulah Falls is credited with being one of the "kickers" against the action of the military board in locating the encampment. Please allow me space in your columns to correct this statement. I was invited by telegraph on yesterday to join in the protest but positively declared to do so. I the protest, but positively declined to do so. I made the bid for Tallulah Falls. In making it, I thought, and still think, that for many reasons it should be located here. Atjantic railroad, necessarily influenced my own views on the subject. But I did not understand that the location was put up at auction, to be knocked off to the highest bidder. There were many other considerations funch more important, I should think, than the mere question of dollars and certs. I can readily see how some places might make large pecuniary offers, and yet be totally unfit for the encampment.

Some of the members of the board I had long known personally. Others I met for the first time on Monday, but they were well known to me from reputation. I made my offer to them, and brought them here and showed them the proposed site. In submitting my bid to them, it was with the fullest confidence that, as individuals and as a body, their decision would be based upon their honest convictions as to what would be best for the state and the state military. The fact that their decision has been adverse to me gives me no ground to change this onlino.

I am, therefore, not only unwilling to enter a protest, but, on the contrary, I cherrfully acquissee in their decision and heartily congratulate my successful competitor. Yours truly, W. B. THOMAS.

An adjourned meeting was held in Rome yesterday and the following protest was formally agreed to and signed by the leading citizens of Romemore than 125 in number. Five hundred signatures could have been securing the assily as the number attached, as only about two hours were consumed in securing the signatures:

"To His Excellency, William J. Northen, Governor—Sir: We, the undersigned, citizens of Rome, Ga., being interested in the welfare of the military of the state, and believing that the method of the military advisory board in deciding the place for the permanent encampment for the military was not in accordance with the specifications contained in their advertisements for bids, in that they discriminated in favor of one of the contestants as against the other competitive points, we therefore earnestly ask a reopening of the question, that each competitor may have a full and free hearing."

Information has been received by Chairman Walton that this movement is widespread throughout the state, and the indications are that a spontaneous protest will go up from every city and town, this being especially true of towns that contain military companies.

EDITOR CONSTITUTION: I was wired, today, from one of the protesting cities, to protest against the action of the advisory board in regard to the location of the encampment. It appears to mee that this is a matter for the different companies to settle, as they are more interested than any other parties; and at this point it might be well for the different captains of the state to let the wishes of the military of the state be known. As it is a military matter, let the military settle it, and not the different cities. While Macon is a good location in many respects, the local military of this place, as well as myself, prefer Brunswick. No damper should be thrown over the state militia by dissatisfied cities; let less money be spent in locating a site and more to our soldiery.

A telegram from Rome states that Rome will forward its protest to the governor to-morrow.

The Girls and the Baking Powders.

Complaints are made of a band of baking powder tramps whose tricks upon unsuspecting house-keepers seem to partake very much of the nature of confidence operations. The band is composed of women, although employed and directed by an agent of the other sex, and their method of procedure, as explained by several ladies who have been victimitized, is as follows: Obtaining access to the kitchen, they introduce the subject of baking powders, inquiring the kind used in the family. Being shown the can, perhaps a fresh, full one, they volunteer to "test" it to ascertain its qualities. Their "test" consists in placing the can on a hot stove or over a lamp or gas jet, or in boiling the baking powder with water. If the baking powder is good for anything, the heat will, of of course, expel the gas, which is apparent to the sense of smell. The claim is then made that this gas indicates something detrimental, although, as a matter of fact, a baking powder that would give off no gas when subjected to heat would be without leavening powder the women peddle being loaded with flour and made from cheaper and inferior material does not give off the large amount of gas that is so perceptible in the other. This shows its actual inferiority as a leavening agent. The Girls and the Baking Powders.

This shows its actual agent.

Were this the whole of the operation, dishonest and disreputable as it is, housekeepers would not often be deceived. The chief object of the juggler is to destroy the baking powder given for testing; or by heating it to drive off its leavening gases, and so weaken it that when used it will fail to work. The average "tramp" will, in this way, destroy from ten to twenty-five pounds of baking powder a day.

ELLIJAY, Ga., March 5 .- [Special.]-The beautiful county seat of Gilmer county, the old town of Ellijay, has recently attracted the attention of outside capitalists and sagacious ousiness men of enterprise and progressive spirit. Our people have not been wholly ignoran of the material gifts of nature concealed among the mountains, and interspersed with other sources of human happiness throughout the plateau, at their base, in bountiful profu

The uniform aim of our people has always heretofore been to develop the agricultural interests of all parts of our state, to the exclusion of all others, which has absorbed the full sup ply of labor within our borders since, as well is before, the change in our industrial system quarter of a century ago.

Unfortunately, the effect of political agitation, particularly at the north, has been to divert capital, skilled and common labor from the south to the unnatural inflation of the west, where questionable and too often deceitful schemes, based alone upon agriculture and transportation, with incident local commerce, without the foundation of manufacturing production, has had but one natural result the enrichment of a few of that pestiferous class known as "boomers" at the expense and mpoverishment of numberless confiding investors. But it having become patent to al hat treeless prairies and railway crossings alone bear but poor comparison to an equally productive, if not superior, agricultural region, found almost everywhere at the south With equal railway facilities, splendid waterpower, mineral and timber wealth on every hand, a homogeneous, liberal and hospitable population, such as that of north Georgia, particularly of its center at Ellijay, where all these advantages exist, no other effect could be expected to follow but that which the south is now experiencing—a moving thitherward of the most desirable class of people to occupy the lands and develop the material resource Nature has bounteously concentrated in the vicinity of Ellijay, the principal focal point of social intercourse in the north of the state, all of the elements of national and domestle wealth-iron and its valuable oxides. gold and silver-bearing quartz and galena in very profitable combination, which, with modern methods of reduction and elimination, will equal the ores of the Pacific slope-marbles of the most delicate structure and beautiful variety, both colored and statuary, granite, kaolin and innumerable other minerals; timber, con sisting of nearly all the trees common to the deciduous forests of America, purest bituminous coal, and, indeed, lacking nothing of material advantage to the prosperity and happiness of mankind, while enjoying the most perfect hygienic and climatic conditions. An association of gentlemen known as the Ellijay Land and Improvement Company, comprising mainly West Virginians, Virginians and gentlemen from contiguous states, distinguished for their personal integrity, as well as for their public service and character for enterprise and public spirit, have taken hold of Ellijay, which they deem a point of unparalleled promise, and will, by an expenditure of a large sum of money in local improve ments, thus showing their faith by their works, start that community on its new career of progress. Among the important improve ments will be the immediate construction of grand hotel at a cost of $50,000.

They are mainly the same gentlemen, who, as the New Castle Land and Improvement Company, of Virginia, through their sagacity and activity started that mountain hamlet upon its career of unexampled prosperity, and now threatens to outstrip the principal cities of that state. They do not hesitate to say that Ellijay has advantages superior to New Castle. Hon. A. E. Humphreys, president of the Ellijay company, was the president and prime mover in the New Castle enterprise. He retains the principal office of the company at Charles W. Va.

Both he and Hon. Robert S. Carr, general manager, are now at Ellijay to begin the work of improvement.

Colonel Carr will hospitably entertain all visitors to the company at Ellijay at one their mansion houses, and extend all possible facilities to investors and others. The gentleman is the late accomplished president of the West Virginia senate and is likewise president of the Ella Layman Towboat Company, of the Ohio and its tributaries. Indeed, all co Ohio and its tributaries. Indeed, all connected with the enterprise are gentlemen of extensive resources and restless energy. In conversation they point with lively enthusiasm and much force to the immense possibilities of Ellijay, and refer with much satisfaction to the ultimate effect of the proposed increased commerce with South America, incident to Mr. Blaine's reciprocity agreement with Brazil etc., the fact that it will, with the aid of Mr. Gould's new railway combinations, make of our seaports the most imbinations, make of our seaports the most im portant on the Atlantic; that Ellijay, sur rounded and blessed as it is with incompara Founded and pleased as it is, with incompara-ble resources, with the easy facilities for their reduction into merchantable commodities,— not excepting north, as well as central, and middle Georgia's great agricultural staples,

"I think it would be consistent. The limitions in the constitution upon the general sembly relating to the appropriation of oney and enterprises that the state ay engage in, are found in the following ctions:
"Section 5006 of the code prohibits the apoperation of public money to churches or

The failure of the convention of 1877 to lock

Such a conclusion is verified by the section

FLORIDA'S SENATORIAL CONTEST.

The Outlook as Presented by Mr. Louis J. Brumby, of Monticello.

Mr. Louis J. Brumby, editor of the Monticello, Fla., Constitution, is on a short visit to Georgia. He removed from this state to Florida some time ago, and has been remarkably successful in his new field. He has gone to the front in political as well as passenter signless. t Chicago—The Opinion of Professor Andrew J. Cobb Upon the Law—And It

He was formerly one ATHENS, Ga., March 5 .- [Special.]-A great cal has been said and written lately in re-ard to the state of Georgia making an approof the editors of The Athens Banner, and is riation for an exhibit at the world's fair.

The general drift of opinion seems to have now on a visit to that city.

Speaking to a Constitution reporter of the senatorial situation in Florida, he said:

"The next Florida general assembely, which convenes early in April and which elects the senator, consists in both houses, of 100 w J. Cobb, city attorney of nens and professor of the law artment of the University of Georgia, representatives, ninety-nine of which are democratic and one republican.

"It is an established precedent to hold a democratic caucus in which the good old two-third rule is enforced. The successful candilate must secure sixty-six votes to gain the emocratic nomination."
"What names will probably be submitted to

"What names will probably be submitted to this caucus?"

"Well" replied Mr. Brumby "that is rather a hard question to answer—Senator Wilkinson Call is a candidate for re-election and with his friends is working very hard to secure the position he has held for nearly twelve years. Among the other names mentioned are F. P. Fleming, our present governor, Ed. M. Hammond—who by the way is a Georgia boy and a very bright politician, ex-Governor Bloxam, Charlie Dougherty, R. H. M. Davidson and John F. Dunn, who is considered to be personally the most popular man in the state."

SENATOR CALL'S CHANCES.

"What are Senator Call's chances for re-election?" was asked.

"I am satisfied he does not stand even the ghost of a show. It is generally estimated that he has at the outside not exceeding thirty-six votes on which he can rely, and that some of these will desert him if a second ballot is found necessary. I consider this estimate reasonably fair, and cannot see any possible hope for him. Like the man who fell out of the balloon, 'he is not in it.' Practically the entire press of the state is opposed to him, with the exception of The Jacksonville Times-Union—his personal organ.

"Speaking of The Times-Union calls to my mind several letters which have recently appeared in your paper, and which discussed the sentatorial custics."

"Speaking of The Times-Union calls to my mind several letters which have recently appeared in your paper, and which discussed the senatorial question. The first, if I rémember correctly, was dated from Tallahassee, and was rather mild, the second from St. Augustine a week or two ago, and give a sensational account of a supposed conference between the opponents of Mr. Call, the third in Monday's paper, and dated from Orlando. "This last was particularly, amusing to me, and I cannot fail to recognize the author of both letters as one and the same person, and I am partially certain that they emanated from a newspaper office in Jacksonville."

SENATOR CALL'S SUCCESSOR.

"Who, then, do you think will be Florida's next senator?" "Who, then, do you think will be Florida's next senator?"

"From the present outlook I should say it would be John F. Dunn, of Ocals. He is a young and remarkably able man, possessing in an exceptionally high degree the condidence of the people. Not being affiliated with any ring, he is a man upon whom all factions can easily unite. Although a young man, he has done more, perhaps, to develop the material resources of the state than any other half-dozen men. Especially has he been largelely instrumental in the development of our great phosphate interests, which have placed Florida upon such a firm basis financially. He has lived all his life in the state, and is thoroughly conversant with her needs. When his name was first mentioned in this connection, the Florida press, almost as a unit, hailed the suggestion with marked approbation, and has since then with marked approbation, and has since then continued to insist upon his election. Then again, the Farmers' Alliance is strongly advo THE FARMERS' ALLIANCE IN IT.

"Will the alliance take any interest in the

"Well, I should say so. There is no state in which the alliance is stronger than in Florida, and they are rightly taking a dep interest in politics. There is no third-party foolishness about them, either. They are good, straight-out democrate, who believe the reforms they advocate can best be obtained. good, straight-out democrats, who believe the reforms they advocate can best be obtained through the democratic party. They control both branches of our legislature, fifty-nine members out of the 100 being alliancemen. They have the right and the power to name Senator Call's successor, and they propose to do it. Mr. Dunn is, and always has been, a very strong friend of the alliance, and an earnest and conscientious advocate of the reform which they have inaugurated.

What an influence for good or evil is exerted by the proper or improper use of money.

What an influence for good or evil is exerted by the proper or improper use of money. It seems to be the first essential of modern life. Sad indeed is the lot of that man or that wousan without money and without friends. Especially in cases of sickness is the need of money felt most pressingly, and yet even the rich with all their money fall into a state of poor health and die, whereas if their money was rightly expended and the proper remedies applied they might regain health and strength.

Z. A. Clark, Atlanta, Ga., says: "I spent four hundred and eightly dollars in gold-to cure me of terrible blood poison that affected my linbs and uses and body, with running ulcers. One month's treatment of B. B. B. besied the ulcers, restored my appetite, strengthened my kidneys and added 21 pounds to weight."

Still, in spite of this and much other testimony there are many who refuse to try the remedy, seeming to prefer to pay large fees to physicians, or visit distant springs in vain hopes of recovery. The great truth, however, shines brightly and that is, that no one who ever gives B. B. B. (Botanic Blood Balm) a trial ever found disappointment therein.

GENERAL PHIL COOK

HAS AN EXCITING ADVENTURE WITH A JERSEY BULL.

The Here of a Thousand Fights Bravely Holds His Own, But Was Finally Forced to Surrender.

ALBANY, Ga., March 5.—[Special.]—General Phil Cook is the hero of an exciting and amusing story, which has just been given to the public. The story, as told by a citizen of Lee county to The Albany News and Advertiser is as follows:

Some time since General Cook came down from Atlanta to spend a few days on his farm recuperating his wasted energies, and while there was told of the fighting inclination which his Jersey bull had developed during his absence in attending to matters of state. The doughty old warrior pooh-poohed the stories told him about his favorite bull, and determined to show the farm hands that all that was needed to bring him back to his wonted docility was a little kind treatment and a few gentle words spoken to him.

The general, therefore, armed with this determination, went forth to the forty-acre lot of which the bull was the sole occupant, and climbing over the "staked and rideired" fence with difficulty, boldly advanced towards the belligerent beast, which, after regarding him with the most searching curiosity for a few moments, lowered his head, threw some dirt over hispback with his fore hoofs, and uttering a few bellows which shook the earth round about, started for the general, who, realizing that the bull regarded him as the boldest sort of an invader, hastily faced about and made tracks for the fence.

The bull seemed to divine the general's thoughts, and hoisting his tail in the air, came sweeping after him like a cyclone. The general realized his danger, and making as good time as his game leg would admit, he reached a large tree which stood in a corner of the fence, and "slid" behind it just as the bull knocked a lot of bark off it with his head.

Then came about a half an hour of expert deciging from the infuriated beasts during vonted docility was a little kind treatmen

Then came about a half an hour of expert dodging from the infuriated beast, during which he displayed the activity of the short-stop of a champion baseball nine, but finally several of the farm hands came up, and getting the bull's attention, the general was rescued from his perilous position, a wiser if not a sadder man.

And the bull still holds the fort!

The Hebrews and the Grady Hospital Fifty dollars was added to the fund of the Grady hospital yesterday. It is not the amount, but the manner of the donation, that challenges attention.

It seems that, while the movement to raise the fund was in progress, the late Hon. David Mayer was in ill health, and found it impossible to take part in the affairs of men. While in conversation with I is wife and children he expressed the purpose of becoming a contributor to the fund as soon as he got out. But that occasion never came, for the old patriarchiwas gathered to his fathers, and sleeps with Moses and the prophets. And yet he lives in those he left behind him. His aged widow, in settling up the affairs of the estate, was mindful of her husband's debts of intention as well as those of his contraction. With a devotion to his wishes, from which Christians might read a lesson, Mrs. Mayer on yesterday sent Captain James W. English a check for the $50 which it was the intention of her husband to have given. This honest and courtly old Hebrew, who for over forty years moved unostentatiously among the people, was but a type of his class in this city. He was a type of the kind of men who build up a community; who, having made money in it, are willing to share their part in public movements, and from whom Atlanta has received her character of push and energy.

This recalls the fact that to two Hebrews is, in reality, due the existence of the hospital. Three years ago, in advocating this necessity, Hon. Jacob Elsas authorized the city authorities to draw on him for $1,000 to start a fund for the purpose. The city was not prepared at the time to take it up, but Mr. Elsas' mannner of talking gave life to the project, which ripened into something tangible one year later when Hon. Joseph Hirsch, then in the city council, pushed through a heavy appropriation for the proposed hospital. The lamented death of Mr. Grady gave Mr. Hirsch, backed as he was by Mr. Elsas, the occasion to suggest the most fit ting memorial to the dead journalist-a hospital on a scale worthy of the city in which it was built. From this it will be seen that, while Atlanta is filled with Christian churches, yet she owes the existence of her only great charity to Hebrews, to such men as Hirsch, Elsas and Mayer.

Nor was this the only contribution made by these men to the greatness of Atlahta: They have established themselves in commerce, in manufactures, and in the development of real estate. Their money is to be found in magnificent piles of brick and granite, which pins them to the soil, and makes them one with us.

From this record there is a lesson for every business man in the city. It follows without argument that to the community in which a man has prospered he owes a return. Nothing is more contemptible than the man who, having made money out of the fortuitous circumstances a community throws around him, closes purse and heart against all appeals, and lives hated and despised, where he might be respected and honored. The art of giving marks the true man much more than the mere art of getting.

They Were Cautious.

Colonel Shepard's paper, The New York Mail and Express, recently addressed a number of letters to congressmen-elect requesting their pictures and short sketches of their career for publication. Some of the replies to this request are significant, and are in the nature of a rebuke to the newspaper which has been ever ready to vilify the south and southern interests-either through prance or malice.

Editor Shepard says, however, that the returns from the south were satisfactory, and as a rule the letters were couched in courteous language. But some of our congressmen, remembering the politics and hostile character of The Mail and Express were suspicious and careful in their replies.

instance, our contemporary says that Mr. Doan, of Wilmington, O., feared that it was going to "bunco" him. Mr. Epes, of ia, could scarcely be prevailed upon to ish any facts, being also suspicious of motives of the paper; and one member, om North Carolina, would give no information, stating that he did not wish to appear in the columns of a newspaper that had vilified his state.

significant and should set Editor Shepard to thinking. It is an indication of the general esteem in which his paper is held in the south, and shows that it is, perhaps, the only intensely sectional and partisan newspaper in the world.

The Restoration of Palestine.

Is it possible that out of the persecution of the Jews in Russia should grow the restoration of Palestine?

The Hebraws of the United States are talking about this matter in a way that may lead to important results. The case of 2,000,000 of 'their brethren, who must leave Russia, presses the question home. There is no room for these people in any other European country. It would neither be prudent nor politic to bring so many to the United States. Since they must be deported from the land in which they live, why not settle them in Palestine, which country is theirs of right, and whose valleys they can make smile with plenty, as of yore.

For over 1,700 years the Hebrews have been wanderers over the face of the earth, without a country they could call their own and the victims, at times, of such persecutions as must forever shame the human race. Prevented by hostile laws from becoming owners of the soil; compelled at all times to look for expulsion; buffeted by prejudice and the victims of greed, they have been forced to keep their holdings in the most convenient form for removal, and were always the sojourners of a day, instead of a part of the settled community of any coun-

The story of their despoilment by the pagan hordes of the Roman empire has been nore than rivaled by the atrocities heaped upon them in Christian Spain and England. All the horrors of ruffianly barbarism, as well as the more refined cruelties of civilized punishments, have been visited upon them. They have been at times invited to settle down in places only to be ruthlessly robbed of their savings at the dictate of some Christian ruler. Found innocent of crime, and yet marked for persecution, the finger of prejudice has fanned the hate of the ignorant, and women and children have had to crouch beneath the stones and lashes of the mob. This state of affairs is not ancient history, for within the memory of living men it has been duplicated in every country in the world, and the record of one is quite as bad as that of the other.

The first light of liberty for the Hebrews went forth from the United States. Here they could stand on terms of equality with all other citizens. Then, through reasons of financial policy, England opened her doors to the Rothschilds, and later to others. But history teaches no lesson better than this: That this state of affairs is but a truce, which may come to an end at any time in every country except in our own.

What more fitting solution, then, can there be of the Hebrew problem than their restoration to Palestine? Is not the finger of God in the Russian persecution? The restoration of these 2,000,000 of frugal, thrifty people to Palestine would re-establish its position as one of the nations of the earth. The Hebrews of other countries would gladly contribute to the work of sending their kindred back to the promised land.

The fact that the Russian Jews should have remained tillers of the soil fits them peculiarly for the task of building up the waste places, and restoring the fertility of the land which is theirs by divine gift. The great powers of Europe have already restored the autonomy of several countries which were under the Turkish voke. This is what the Hebrews now ask for Palestine. They wish the president of the United States to call for action from the signatory powers of Europe, and even suggest that they would willingly tax themselves with such compensation as Turkey might exact. The petition to the president is signed by the leading clergymen, editors and politicians of all shades of thought. There are many reasons why the president should interest himself in this matter. The proposition differs from the move in England, at which the czar of Russia took offense, in that it might coincide with Russian policy. The ezar has no personal hatred toward the Jews. The movement against them is, to a great extent, racial. He only wishes their removal from among the people of the empire. It does not follow that he should want to inflict misery upon them elsewhere. He desires the despoilment of Turkey, and if he could use the exodus of the Jews from his own dominions to further his policy of ousting the Turks from one of their most-favored provinces. there is every reason to believe that he would do so.

Georgia and the World's Fair. We publish in another column an inter esting interview with Professor Andrew J. Cobb, city attorney of Athens, in regard to the proposed state exhibit at the world's fair. Professor Cobb, who is one of the best lawyers in the country, a deep thinker, with a mind skilled in the mysteries of the law, in this ample argument throws a new and welcome light upon what has appeared to be a vexed problem to the people of the state—namely, the right of the state to make an appropriation for an exhibit at our great national expositiou. The question has been, if we bring it down to a fine point, not exactly "the right" of Georgia to do this-for that is admitted by all-but the manner in which it could be done without doing violence to the prohibition exercised by the constitution of the state, which has been variously interpreted as touching this question. Professor Cobb steps in here and make the way plain. He shows very clearly how this appropriation can be made without infringing on the letter of the law. His argument is strong and seems practicable, and we commend this feature of the question to the legislature and to all who are interested in the welfare of the state. There is no time to lose. If Georgia is to be represented at the world's fair the work must be commenced at once, and we must use all the means in our power to that end. Other states have already taken action in the matter, and in this connection our sister state of Alabama has given us a shining example. The whole country is aroused. wave of enthusiam is sweeping through the states, and they are giving their wealth and energy to the work. California has led with a magnificent appropriation, and one after another the states are falling into line.

Georgia must be a star in, the galaxy of states in 1893, taking rank with the best of them. The Empire State of the south must all her wealth and glory, no matter what the cost may be. This is the verdict of the people. They are alive to the importance of such representation and will render all the aid in their power.

Let the state do its duty in this interest and be quick to seize every opportunity that may advance it.

The Great Defeat of Harrison. Now that the battle has been fought and won, it is not improper that THE CONSTI-TUTION should call attention to its successful fight against the passage of the force

The soul of the movement which put Benjamin H. Harrison into the white house was the determination that every congressional district in the southern states having a colored majority should have a republican representative. It was declared that the republican congress should see to it that such laws were enacted as would make it impossible for the southern whites to control their own affairs, and that the negro should ride to the top, even if bayonets had to be called into use.

This rallying cry intensified as the circle immediately around Candidate Harrison was reached. The hungry orators who were sent out over Indiana by the conspirators in the Dennison house, spoke with all the fervor of old-time abolitionists, and in their zeal for the "man and brother" they denounced in unmeasured terms the white men of the south.

This feeling of hate toward the white race, this determination to subject it to black domination, was fully shared by the president-elect. For awhile, under the softening influence of victory, he hesitated between General Longstreet, who represented decency in politics, and Colonel Buck, who represented the John E. Bryant stripe, finally letting the malignant in his nature triumph, by taking Buck to his bosom.

When congress met, with a narrow republican majority, the first work was to deliberately make that majority larger by turning out democrats who had been duly elected. Then the rules were changed, so as to deprive the minority of all rights, and the speaker was vested with autocratic power. The record of falsification of votes, of enactment of odious laws, of robbery of the treasury, which followed, stands without a parallel in the history of the country.

But all this was as nothing to the main purpose mapped out by the president and his advisers-the humiliation of the southern whites by the passage of a drastic election law. The bill which was introduced, properly called the force bill, boiled down to its real intention, was expressed in the clause which ordered the clerk of the house to enroll only such members of each succeeding congress as were certified by federal election supervisors appointed by such men as Judge Hugh Bond; and to know the source of appointment is to know enough. The bill was so sweeping in character, so revolutionary, that the country was dazed. Almost without debate it was rushed through the house under the Casarism of Reed. It was ready to be reported in the senate, with the public conscience still dormant.

Here was a bill which proposed to convert the southern states into a Hayti, where, after a few years of massacre and disorder, fetichism would rule, and a howling wilderness would replace the work of generations of civilization. The ultra wing of the republican party was riding rough-shod over the more conservative section; the democrats of the north were protesting but feebly, while the representatives in congress from the south were powerless. Liberty lay bleeding beneath the dagger of the political assassin.

It was during the stagnation of public conscience, this riot of partisanship, that a voice was heard which at once attracted attention. THE CONSTITUTION called upon e of the south, whose hearts beat as one under the lash of persecution, and whom common sorrows had cemented to stand together as one man, and to treat as public enemies those who sought to crush them. If the friendship of the southern people was to be forever rejected, if their purposes were to be forever misconstrued and their words misunderstood, then relying upon themselves, they withdrew their business as well as their friendship from a section so impossible to conciliate.

THE CONSTITUTION'S proposed boycott struck where argument failed to convince. The hearty response from every part of the south convinced the business men of the north that there was meaning in it. The democratic newspapers which had lagged in duty, crisicised; the republican organs howled; timid business men, who thought more of dollars than they did of justice, turned up their noses, but nevertheless the work was done. From that moment chambers of commerce began to pass resolutions newspapers began to grow aggressive, and even republicans began to doubt the wisdom of the bill. So strong was the movement started that consideration of the infamous measure was postponed until the second session of congress, and postponement meant

No man was more chagrined than President Harrison. Committed to a policy of hate, all that was narrow within him became more contracted still when he found his pet measure balked. In his next annual message he again insisted upon the passage of the bill. With the history of his seco defeat, and the killing of the bill, the public is familiar.

It is well to remember, however, that President Harrison's one and only purpose has been to secure the passage of this bill, and that he would have succeeded, had not THE CONSTITUTION, at an opportune moment, stood in his way and sounded the alarm which awakened the dulled concience of the country.

A Bully Retires.

The passing of T. B. Reed and his celebrated proboscis is certainly an event. There was an enterprise and a native vigor about his blackguardism that would have won him renown as a burglar, or as the bummer' of a metropolitan barron

His audacity, which is that of a pickoocket, has placed his corrupt party in a ole which it will not crawl out of in many a day. As an organization it was corrup before Reed became speaker, but his ular boldness gave it an incentive in the fected. Never before has treachery to people been so coolly arranged and so thoroughly advertised; never before have the people of the country been made the victims of such a system of robbery and taxation-a system as carefully organized in the dministrative as in the appropriation bills.

The bulk of this robbery and corruption is the result of fraud in legislation, and this fraud is the special invention of the barroom bully from Maine. The parliamentary machinery that he devised was as vigorous and as effective as the instruments by which bank robbers manage to overpower and gag the officers of financial institutions.

The republican party was a legislature unto itself. The most important laws were passed by falsely counting a quorum, and in this way the rights, not of a party, but of the people, were outraged. Fortunately, the have already, to some extent, renpeople have already, to some extent, ren-dered their verdict on Reed's methods of robbery. The republican party has been crushed, smashed and flattened, and the reform thus auspiciously begun will be completed at the polls in 1892.

Thomas B. Reed is a great man. He has led his party to commit suicide, and that is the most fortunate and graceful fact in the career of this political bully.

IF THE democrats will only act up to their convictions and carry out their principles with anflinching fidelity, the republican majority in the house will not make its reappearance half a century. The people from one end of the country to the other are ripe for the re application and the reascendency of the principles of genuine democracy.

WHAT A consummate farce! The ridiculous little president signing the copyright bill with pen made from an eagle's pinion! He ought to have used the hind leg of a buzzard. This would have fitly represented the instincts of his party.

THE DEMOCRATS made a good deal of fus about a surplus. The people will aid them in making a fuss over the republican deficiency.

To sleep all night with a corpse for a bedfellow is certainly a novel experience, but that is what Edward Johnson, a waiter in the Prince Albert restaurant in Kansas City did. Johnson's roommate was Edward Fuller, who also worked at the Prince Albert restaurant. Johnson went to his Prince Albert restaurant. Johnson went to his room and found that Fuller had retired, and was, room and found that Fuller had retired, and was, as he supposed, fast asleep. He was lying with his face to the wall. The atmosphere in the room had a decided zeroic feeling, and Johnson disrobed with considerable haste, and without striking a match, hopped into bed, pulled the covers over his head and went to sleep. The little alarm clock at the head of the bed was set for 5 colock and the long rattle of the bell at that o'clock, and the loud rattle of the bell at the hour awakened Johnson, who rubbed his eyes and gave Fuller a punch in the back. This little act, however, was received with suspicious silence on Fuller's part, and on further investigation John-son four d that his bedmate was cold and stiff in death. for disorderly conduct at the station house.

Both are young men of high standing, and the cases against them seem to be the result of a thoughtless lark.

The gentlemen told Officer Baldwin that they had been assaulted. Officer Smith joined Officer Baldwin and pursuit was given to the two young men who had disappeared in Mercer's alley. They were not found, however. An account of the affair was printed in The Constitution, and this led to the arrest of Messrs. Purcell and Darby.

They were greatly amused, they say, when they read the story told by Messrs. Jones and Woodson, and naturally began talking about the affair among their friends in the officer where they work. This talk reached Officer Verner, and he made the cases.

Mr. Purcell says he and Mr. Darby were going up Alabama street, when they met Messrs. Woodson and Jones. When they met either Mr. Woodson or Mr. Jones stopped to look closely at them as they passed.

At this he (Purcell) made some remark, accompanied by a gesture, but did not strike, or attempt to strike, anybody. He and his companion then passed on up the street, never dreaming that the police were after them as

In the future it will not be so.

An enterprising gentleman has demonstrated the fact that this is not only a superior iron-making point, but that the iron that is desirable for such purposes can be made. General Wilder asserts that the magnetic iron ore of Cherokee county, Ga., belonging to the Chattahoochee Land Company, is peculiarly adapted to the making of strong, tough machinery iron. Atlanta's accessibility to the gulf and Atlantic seacoast is another feature that will in future direct attention to her.

The body of little Mike Sherlock, a gypsey baby, was buried in Oakland yesterday. He was the infant son of one of the members of a band of [gypsies camped near Grant park, and was buried according to the ritual of the Catholic church.

Put Off in the Country. There is a damage suit being tried in the city court, Toy vs. the East Tennessee railroad, which is a little interesting. Some young ladies were bound for Atlanta, and intended to get off at Simpson street. The brakeman called Simpson street before the train reached the city, and the young ladies, thinking they had reached the place desired, got off the train and were left in the woods.

In His Own Office.—Mr. Alex Smith, who since his admission to the bar has been associated with Colonel B. F. Abbott in the practice of law, is now by himself. Mr. Smith has an office in the Gate City Bank building. The Atlanta bar has no brighter or more prominent young attorney than Mr. Smith, and his friends predict for him a continuation of the success that has been his in the past. No young man at the bar possesses to a higher degree the confidence of his elders at the bar and certainly none deserves it more fully.

A Change of Base .- Mr. Charles H. Williams one of the most popular young traveling men on the road, has accepted a position with a popular Cincinnati house, headquarters in Atlanta. He left on yesterday for Florida, in the interest of the new house.

Memorial Services.—The memorial services which were to have occurred last night at the First Baptist church, in memory of the late Rev. Paul Hornaday, did not take place on account of the inclemency of the weather. The services will be conducted at an early date.

At the conclusion of the first part of the programme by the quintette club, the Rifles repaired to the stage, and, when the curtain went up, as fine a military company as Geor

ing the presentation about to take place. He said the occasion reminded him of another where a fair daughter of the Old Dominother where a fair daughter of the Old Dominion presented a company from that grand old commonwealth a flag made from the white folds of her wedding dress, as they were just entering the conflict for their country's cause, and that in their devotion to it they had torn it into threads and secreted it about their person rather that it should get into the hands of the enemy.

Among all her jewels, rich and rare, there are mone to exceed her citizen soldiers.

Their fame is measured by the continent, and, when from the west they returned, bearing in their hands the trophy of victory, won in friendly strife, no honors were too great for the Rifles to receive, bestowed by this devoted people.

In all nations the flag has been the symbol of honor and glory. The lion of England has reflected from its proud folds the sun of every clime.

The tri-color of France has made for her people a nation of heroes.

Our own banner floats over a free and happy people, from the "sea that is wild to the sea that sieeps," and, wherever its bright stars glisten in the sunlight, whether amid the rough winds of the north or the flower-laden zephers of the south, bright eyes greet it; strong hands uphold it, and loyal hearts would willingly die for it.

The flag I now present is my own handiwork; accept it, cherish it in memory of one who gave it; so, whether in the tented field of Mars or in the halls of pleasure you will ever bear my colors.

Its colors of green, white and gold are emblems of strength, purity and courage; virtues which all brave soldiers possess. It bears the coat of arms of our beloved state, wisdom, justice and moderation, which all true soldiers emulate. Upon its folds I have endeavored to present a picture of southern valor; not to remind us, in sadness, of the past, but as a constant inspiration to that patriotism which makes even death sweet for one's country. I place it in your keeping, feeling confident that it can find no braver or truer.

Should duty call you to uphold your country's fame, bear it bravely, like worthy sons of the men who fought where the plume of Stewart waved, and the sword of Jackson flashed.

Judge Calhoun appropriately thanked Miss

The flag presented is Miss Venable's own handiwork, and no company will bear a more elegant or beautiful one.

THE NEW YORK STOCK MARKET. The Day on the Floor of the New York Stock

The Day on the Floor of the New York Stock Exchange.

NEW YORK, March 5.—The market for stocks today gave every evidence that the efforts to bring about a materially lower range of values in the general list had failed, and that the sellers of yesterday were industriously endeavoring to get back the short sales of yesterday. There was a great deal made of the shipment of gold, but in the face of the actual announcement this morning prices refused to yield, and it took a specially severe drive at Burlington to get off less than I per cent. The better feeling in the street was very pronounced at the opening, and the first prices were generally from ½ to ½ per cent better than last evening's prices. London was a moderate seller at the opening, and the disquieting news from abroad induced some selling for local account, aided by the effect of ordering $600,000 gold for shipment to Europe. The impression made upon prices was very light, however, and London afterward became a buyer on the report of the satisfactory adjustment of the difficulties abroad. This checked selling of all sorts, and duliness, with a firm tone and slight fluctuations, followed, many of the active stocks regaining all the early loss. The publication of the statement of the net earnings of flurington for the month of January, with its loss of $341,000, precipitated an attack upon that stock, and it yielded 1 per cent on heavy selling. Upon the cessation of the pressure it rallied slightly, and became again dull, while the remainder of the list, which had sympathized to a limited extent only, displayed the same firmness which had marked the morning transactions. The general list showed no feature throughout the day, and the market finally closed dull but firm at insignificant changes from last evening's prices, though most of them are losses. Even Burlington and Lackawanna, in which the most weakness was noticed, were only fractionally lower. Sales—listed stocks, 136,000 shares; unlisted, 9,000 shares.

NEW YORK, March 5.—The features of the trading today were, as usual, Chicago, Burlington and Quincy and Rock Island. Quincy held steady until the carnings for January were published, but a decrease of $36,000 was more than the street expected, and it sold off in consequence. The statement shows that they did not earn even fixed charges for the month, and the bears put special stress on this point. Rock Island was sold on the oft-repeated tale of no dividend. The bulls argue, on the other hand, that they showed nearly 4 per cent earned for the nine months ending December 31st, and that if they can make fixed charges until April 1st they can afford to pay the usual dividend. Last year the road earned but 5 per cent from January 1st to April 1st, but this year, by saving in expenses, they may earn fixed charges. We know, as a positive fact, that the largest holder of Rock Island for years still holds his original stock, but it is impossible to say what the speculative directors may do. Delaware, Lackawama and Western was neithed to weakness all day, but the rest of the

NEW YORK, March 5.—The market today has been the dullest which we have experienced for some time past. Not alone that, the fluctuations have been inerely nominal, but there has been absolutely no desire to trade either way. The receipts today have again been very liberal, though having but little effect, being counteracted by the more encouraging advices received from Liverpool. For the moment the market uppears to us to be in a position to be easily influenced by orders to buy or sell, as the same may happen to predominate.

Features of the Speculative Movement in Grain and Provisions.

Grain and Provisions.

CHICAGO, March 5—An enormous business was transacted in wheat. Everybody expected that Pardridge, the largest short in the market, would be a heavy buyer as soon as the board opened, and they were not disappointed. His brokers were buying right and left at the outset. Before the session was half an hour old it was the popular impression that he had bought in all of his line, which was estimated at fully 2,600,000 bushels. He succeeded in getting it all within a range of lc. The reason of this is that many of the longs, who have been sweating on loss for many weeks, were willing to sell. Despite the free selling by foreigners, cables from abroad were almost unanimously bullish. This was so to such an extent that, taken in connection with the selling orders, the local trade concluded that it was being "worked." Domestic news was certainly bearish. Receipts in bushels at the 11 leading points, Kansas City not included, were 273,000 bushels, against shipments of 122,000 bushels. May wheat started out at $1.00, sold for a moment at 99%c and then bulged speedily to $1.00%. At $1.00% and higher the offerings of wheat were coormous. The market ultimately left their effects and broke down to 99%c. It railied to $1.00%, the closing cables announcing the Liverpool market was excited and ½1d per cental higher. At the latter price offerings were again large, and the market got down to 99%c. There was a wild boom in corn at the outset. The excitement prevailing in wheat, lightness of receipts and a knowledge that there would be a little selling on the bulge caused many bulls to exert their influence in hoisting values. It was no trouble at all to hoist them. May started at 6½c, sold to 69%c, howe to 8%c, each them.

Outseld at 50e again for May, but eased off to 69%c.

Outseld at 50e again for May, but eased off to 69%c.

Provisions did not follow the grains. Receipts of hogs were again enormous, and there was no short interest to frighten. May pork started at $2.97\;, sold to $10.00 and then off to $9.87\;. Most of the day's trade was around $9.95.

CHICAGO, March 5.—Parties who were liberal buyers of May wheat at 97c and below were free sellers today. The shorts, having been punished enough, were ready to take their medicine, which they did manfully. Cables were reported excited and higher, but did not bring the usual orders to buy. Holders had made up their minds to sell, and were glad of the opportunity to realize a fair profit.

Corn was excited and higher part of the day, but finally closed at about yesterday's closing price, the trade being a sort of evening-up deal, the shorts glad to get out and holders willing to realize.

Oats were rather neglected. There was some light trading in the way of settlements.

There were 10,000 bushels of rye sold at 92c and 5,000 bushels at 91c, the only transactions today.

The receipts of hogs were somewhat larger than expected, and the sales at the yards being made some 5 to 10c lower than yesterday caused rather a weak opening here, but the trade was merely nominal, without any feature.

The meeting was quite fully attended and important business was transacted with great unanimity of feeling.

A number of roads were admitted to membership, and the prospects of additional membership are flattering.

A great deal of good has been accomplished by this association in the past, and it looks for-ward towards doing more good in the future, not only in reducing the time heretofore consumed in investigating and settling claims made by shippers for loss and damage, but further to the advantage of the various roads by their representatives meeting together.

The association completed its labors last night, and its next meeting has been fixed for August next in Boston, it being customary to fix the places of meeting in the various sections of the country as suggested by the title of the association.

Mr. F. D. Howell, claim agent of the Pennsylvania railroad, was unanimously elected president of the association and Mr. R. M. Fraser, general freight agent of the Baltimore and Ohio Southwestern road, former second vice president, was elected first vice president.

Mr. Pulliam, of the Atlantic Coast Line, was cted second vice president and Mr. S. A. Mehorter, of the over-charge department, of the Pennsylvania road, was elected secretary.

Mr. O. V. Smith, of the Seaboard Air-Line, was elected a member of the arbitration committee for a term of three years, and Mr. Stephens, of the Vandalia Line, was elected a ember of the same committee to succeed Mr. H. L. Chamberlain, assistant general freight agent of the New York, Lake Erie and West-

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., March 5 .- [Special.] W. L. Danley, general passenger agent of the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis, and C. E. Harman, general passenger agent of the Western and Atlantic, were in Chattanoga this morning. The object of the gentlemen's visit is to look into the establishment of a new ticket office at the corner of Market and Ninth. streets. Another change was made on the Western and Atlantic railroad yesterday. Conductor C. C. Davis was relieved from the Dalton accommodation and Conductor George Ferguson put in charge. This is in line with the policy to keep the oldest conductors in service. Mr. Davis has been offered a position in another department. Conductor Bob Wiley was also relieved from his train. He and Conductor Ferguson were on trains No. 11 and 12, which were abandoned some three weeks ago.

A bad accident occurred this morning on the Cincinnati Southern railroad at Happy Hollow. No lives were lost, but two sleepers of train No. 9 were overturned. One hundred feet more, and all would have gone over an hundred-foot trestle. The engine, four coaches and one sleeper passed safely. One or two were slightly hurt; no one seriously. The accident was caused by broken trucks under the first sleeper. The escape was a miracle. The train arrived in Chattanooga about 2 p. m.

Over a hundred men are busy at work finishing the improvements on Cumberland island inaugurated by the Macon syndicate that purchased Mr. Buckley's interest. Extensive adchased Mr. Buckley's interest. Extensive additions have been made to the original hotel, and when completed 300 guests can be easily accommodated. Promenades, parks, pavilions and street railways will be made as attractive as is possible for money to make them. A Cincinnati syndicate has also purchased a location embracing the site of the old Spanish forts, and a contract has been made for erecting thereon an elegant hotel with beautiful surroundings. Several carloads of horses and wagons belonging to the contractors passed through Atlanta Wednesday en route from Cincinnati to Cumberland, and the intention is to complete the hotel in time for this season's to complete the hotel in time for this season's business. When these hotels are finished 1,000 guests can he easily and royally entertained on Cumberland island.

The General Passenger and Ticket Agents' Association will not hold its semi-annual meeting as stated, this having been abolished, but the regular annual meeting of the association will be held at Old Point Comfort, Va., in

John H. Inman, president, has issued a circular announcing that that portion of the Richmond and Danville system belonging to the Virginia Midland railway, extending from Orange to Gordonsville, Va., and known as the Gordonsville branch, has been leased to the Chesapeake and Ohio railway, from March 1, 1891, and that the service of the Richmond and Danville has been withdrawn from said branch line March, 1891, and its operation will be conducted by the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway Company, lessee. W. H. Gteene, who has been promoted from general superintendent to general manager of the Richmond and Danville, supplements this service by the announcement that hereafter all communications relative to the management of the Gordonsville branch shall be addressed to the officers of the Chesapeake and Ohio. This is the first move towards the Chesapeake and Ohio's independent entrance into Washington city. It will be consummated on April 1st by the going into effect of the arrangement for the independent use of the line between Orange and Washington city.

The principal officers of the Richmond Terminal railroad met on Monday in the offices of the company in the Union Trust Company's building, says The New York Tribune, to determine the conditions which they should ask in the proposed passenger traffic alliance with the Pennsylvania road. There were present John H. Inman, the president of the road; W. H. Greene, the general manager; Sol Haas, the traffic manager, and W. G. Oakman, first vice president.

the traine manager, and w. G. Oakman, hist vice president.

"The Pennsylvania Company shows a disposition to grant us everything that is reasonable," said Mr. Inman, "and so long as they do that we are ready to complete the agreement. We expect to get the passenger business arranged as soon as possible, and will probably have the through limited trains in operation within six or seven weeks. As soon as that is done the general traffic business will be similarly arranged."

AND THE SOCIAL WOBLD IS NOT FERY GAY.

Success—It Will Be Repeated— Atlanta's Visitors.

The Y's gave their entertainment last night, at Trinity church, before an audience which was very appreciative, but not as large as favorable weather would have made it.

weather would have made it.

The opening attraction was the Hatchet party, participated in by the following young ladies: Misses Mal Kimball, Annie Purtell, Ray Humphries, Percy Mobley, Gussie Phelps, Arion Purtell, Lucy Phelps, Nellie Kimball, Reta Aycock, Miss Castleberry, Miss Hopkins, Miss Childs and Miss Thomas. A hatchet, of course, was used as a symbol, and commemorative of the experience of little George, they cleverly applied the instrument to another purpose—that of cutting down the tree of intemperance. The rendition was very cleverly given.

Following this was a recitation by Miss Ruby Steinheimer, a vocal solo by Mr. Brisbin, likewise

Steinheimer, a vocal solo by Mr. Brisbin, likewise one by E. P. Burn, all of which were enjoyed. The concluding portion of the programme was a humanophone. This consists of a canvass with an opening in it, on which the various notes are printed. As each note was due some young lady impersonating it exhibited herself, sang the proper tune and disappeared. The entertainment reflected great credit upon Miss Clara Boynton

It is not generally known, but it is nevertheless true, that this organization of the Young Woman's Christian Temperance Union is upholding a kindergarten on Marietta street. It was opened on January ist, and the attendance at present is over thirty. It is a very laudable institution, and is meeting with the prosperity it deserves. These entertainments, being partly for the benefit of this, will probably be of a frequent nature.

REYNOLDS, Ga., March 5.—[Special.]—Mr. J. J. Carson, one of our most enterprising young farmers, today married Miss Lula Ricks, the charming daughter of Mr. I. J. Ricks, Rev. W. J. Durham, of Macon, performing the ceremony. HARTWELL, Ga., March 5.-[Special.]-The prettiest reception ever seen in Hartwell was the "violet tea," given by Mrs. Warren H. Williams in honor of her cousin, Mils Evie Henley, of Ma-

on. About thirty guests were present, and the affair was much enjoyed by all.

Mrs. Williams were an elegant costume with demi-train and yielet brocade trimmings, finished with delicate white birds. Miss Henley was beautifully attired in a violet and gray dress, with velvet bodice en train.

The menu was daintily served in beautiful decorated china and crystal glass. The decorations, menu cards, favors, and costumes were in appropriate harmony and reflected much credit on the taste of the charming hostess.

AN INTERESTING MEETING. O. M. Mitchell Post, Grand Army of the Republic. There was a regular meeting of the O. M. Mitchell Post, Grand Army of the Republic, at the hall, corner of Alabama and Whitehall streets, last evening.

members, and there was a very large attendance.

ance.

Some charitable matters were discussed, the result of the action of the post on which will be given later.

General Lewis, one of the most prominent members of the association, gave a very interesting recital of some of his war experiences. These experiences have been made a feature at the meetings, and there will be some interesting stories told by members, from time to time.

The meeting last evening was entirely private, and the audience was confined to members of the association.

GAINESVILLE, Ga., March 5.—[Special.]—The Georgia Female seminary received today a large lot of desks to meet the demands of its growing patronage. The school was never so prosperous as a tpresent. The boarding department has just been enlarged, but every room is now taken and Professor Van Hoose will add other rooms during the summer. The music class numbers about sixty. Four years ago Professor Van Hoose assumed control of it. He had about twenty-five pupils, two boarders and six music pupils. The enrollment for the present year will be 200. THE BARTON CASE.

ting Facts About the Strictness of the Law Regulating the surance Business.

It is an interesting case - that against Stephen E. Barton, the Boston insurance man, who will be tried at the next term of the superior court for violating the insurance law of the state of Georgia. It will be remembered that Mr. Barton, who is president of the Electric Mutual Insurance Company, of Boston, was arrested in Augusta a day or two ago on a warrant sworn out by Mr. H. C. Stockdell, representing the Atlanta underwriters.

When the grand jury meets Mr. Barton will

At least, Mr. Barton represents himself to be president of that company, as well as spe-cial representative of a number of others.

He claimed in Atlanta that he was on his way to Florida on a hunting expedition, and was not south on husiness Mr. Stockdell was seen by a reporter yester-

This is a violation of the law, which is very strict, providing that insurance com-panies not doing business in the state of Georgia shall be prohibited from negotiating for insurance in this state. That is, they cannot solicit business here, or when given business voluntarily, they cannot even send an agent to adjust loss or diagram the property "Mr. Barton, I understand, came to At-

The law does not allow this. "For instance, here is a case in point.

"Some time ago Mr. Edward Dinsley, representing a Chicago insurance company, came to Atlanta and closed up some business. He was arrested and placed under $1,000 bond to appear before the mental to the business of another.

"But before the case came to trial the secretary of the insurance company came to Atlanta to see about the case. We had a talk about it, and, being honestly of the opinion that no law had been vionated by Mr. Dinsley, he agreed to abide by the opinion of the comptroller general, the insurance commissioner of the state, proposing to pay any fine that might the state, proposing to pay any fine that might be assessed by the solicitor of the court on a plea of guilty, provided the comptroller gen-eral decided that the law had been violated.

eral decided that the law had been violated.

"This was agreed to, and together we went to see Comptroller General Wright. As I knew he would do, he told the secretary that Mr. Dinsley had committed several violations which, though they may have been unintentional, were nevertheless rigidly subject to penalty. Talking for insurance, when the company whose interests were being advanced by its agent or employe was not authorized to transact business in the state, was a violation, and an agent could not even come in the state and use business cards advertising his company.

"The secretary, as he proposed, plead guilty before the case came to trial, and paid the fine

Under all the circumstances, the Boston case promises to be one of more than usual interest. While in Augusta Mr. Barton was in negotiation with the electric street railway company there, and Mr. Stockdell thinks it probable that he laid himself liable there in the same way that he did in Atlanta.

It is understood that he also transacted business in North Carolina, the knowledge of which led the insurance men here to be on the lookout for him when he came to Atlanta. Mr. Barton claims that he came south on a purely pleasure trip, and his business in Atlanta was only incidental.

THE BARTON CASE.

FIOLATING THE INSURANCE LAW OF THE STATE.

ting Facts About the Strictness of the Law Regulating the surance Business.

It is an interesting case - that against Stephen E. Barton, the Boston insurance man, who will be tried at the next term of the superior court for violating the insurance law of the state of Georgia. It will be remembered that Mr. Barton, who is president of the Electric Mutual Insurance Company, of Boston, was arrested in Augusta a day or two ago on a warrant sworn out by Mr. H. C. Stockdell, representing the Atlanta underwriters.

When the grand jury meets Mr. Barton will be indicted.

At least, Mr. Barton represents himself to be president of that company, as well as special representative of a number of others. He claimed in Atlanta that he was on his way to Florida on a hunting expedition, and was not south on business.

Mr. Stockdell was seen by a reporter yesterday and, in regard to the question involved,

"Mr. Barton came to Atlanta and, while here, wrote policies for the electric light company. This is a violation of the law, which is very strict, providing that insurance com-panies not doing business in the state of Georgia shall be prohibited from negotiating for insurance in this state. That is, they cannot solicit business here, or when given business voluntarily, they cannot even send an agent to adjust loss or diagram the property

"Mr. Barton, I understand, came to At-

"Mr. Barton, I understand, came to Atlanta, after correspondence had taken place between his company and the electric light company, and closed up the policies, diagraming the property and looking after other details. The law does not allow this.

"Property owners in Atlanta or the state can, of course, place insurance with foreign companies—meaning companies that have not made their deposit with the state and taken out license—provided the company with which the insurance is placed does not by agent or other officers come within the state to do any part of the business.

other officers come within the state to do any part of the business.

"For instance, here is a case in point.

"Some time ago Mr. Edward Dinsley, representing a Chicago insurance company, came to Atlanta and closed up some business. He was arrested and placed under $1,000 bond to appear before the superior court for trial.

"Mr. Dinsley contended that he had not violated the law, and his attorneys thought they could get him out of it on the ground that one state could not enact laws detrimental to the business of another.

mental to the business of another.

"But before the case came to trial the secretary of the insurance company came to Atlanta to see about the case. We had a talk about it, and, being honestly of the opinion that no law had been violated by Mr. Dinsley, he agreed to abide by the opinion of the comptroller general, the insurance commissioner of the state, proposing to pay any fine that might be assessed by the solicitor of the court on a plea of guilty, provided the comptroller general decided that the law had been violated. "This was agreed to, and together we went

eral decided that the law had been violated.

"This was agreed to, and together we went to see Comptroller General Wright. As I knew he would do, he told the secretary that Mr. Dinsley had committed several violations which, though they may have been unintentional, were nevertheless rigidly subject to penalty. Talking for insurance, when the company whose interests were being advanced by its agent or employe was not authorized to transact business in the state, was a violation, and an agent could not even come in the state and use business cards advertising his company.

"The secretary, as he proposed, plead guilty before the case came to trial, and paid the fine imposed."

Under all the circumstances, the Boston case promises to be one of more than usual interest.
While in Augusta Mr. Barton was in negowhich in Augusta arr. Barton was in lego-tiation with the electric street railway com-pany there, and Mr. Stockdell thinks it prob-able that he laid himself liable there in the same way that he did in Atlanta. It is understood that he also transacted busi-ness in North Carolina, the knowledge of which led the insurance men here to be on the lookout for him when he came to Atlanta.

the lookout for him when he came to Atlanta Mr. Barton claims that he came south on a purely pleasure trip, and his business in Atanta was only incidental.

"The Ruthless Sex"

Is a term applied to women by a Boston writer. It is a slander, of course, but it is an unfortunate fact that the women are the victims of nervous disorders and troubles which "The Brutal Sex" the Bostonese term for the men-do not understand or appreciate. For these troubles and many others that are peculiar to women Swift's Specific S.S.S. is the most potent remedy that has yet been discovered. S.S.S. It restores tone and strength to all the organs, builds up the system, imparts luster to the eyes, clearness to the complexion, and urges into bloom the roses of health. Mrs. Alexander Vaughn, wife of a prominent merchant of Prescott, Arkansas, writes: "I owe the preservation of my life under Providence; to S.S.S. For four years my health was wretched, ruined one constant pain, misery and torture. Two doctors treated me faithfully these four years, but did me no good-
